

Halloween

by Precious N'Gbale

Halloween. Halloween is a time for kids to have fun, dress up, trick or treat and get the biggest sugar rush. It is also a time for people to wickedly prank each other. But the big question is: what does it exactly mean?

What does Hallowe'en celebrate exactly? Is it satanic? Do evil spirits actually exist? Well, in a vast amount of religions, they refuse to celebrate such a devilish holiday but why is that the case? Is Hallowe'en really associated with great depths of evil or is it just a harmless tradition that we came across a while back and has been passed down century after century?

Many people have their theories, many people have their tales but what is actually accurate? I think the biggest factor in this case is perception; what you see and how you see it. So how do you see it? What is Halloween for you? Does it have more meaning to you than a childish holiday?
